

Atlanta Beltline

Bike, walk, run, or dine on the Atlanta Beltline

The Atlanta BeltLine is Atlanta's newest outdoor space and is comprised of 22 miles of unused railroad tracks circling the core of the city's in-town neighborhoods. From trails and walkways to open green space and parks, the Atlanta BeltLine works to connect people throughout the city.

Thousands of visitors flock to the Atlanta BeltLine each week as a way to get exercise, explore Atlanta's neighborhoods and spend time with friends. A world-class amenity similar to New York City's High Line, the Atlanta BeltLine is also home to Art on the BeltLine, the Southeast's largest temporary public art project. Make a day of your BeltLine exploration by relaxing in Historic Fourth Ward Park or by grabbing a drink and lunch at one of the many restaurants situated along the BeltLine.

Reasons to visit the Atlanta Beltline

1. The Atlanta BeltLine is extremely pet friendly! Bring your four-legged fur baby along while you explore Atlanta's in-town neighborhoods on the BeltLine. Fido will appreciate the exercise and you'll love the company of your companion.
2. The Southeast's largest temporary public art project is all around you. Check out Art on the BeltLine as the public installations help to reclaim the 22 miles of unused rail.
3. Because you're hungry. That's right, hungry. Some of Atlanta's favorite restaurants are situated right on the Atlanta BeltLine and have walk-up patios so you can enjoy the view while noshing on great food and drinks. Grab brunch at TWO Urban Licks or a latte at Ponce City Market's Dancing Goats Coffee.
4. There's a skate park. For the young and the young at heart, the Historic Fourth Ward Skate Park is located right on the Atlanta BeltLine. The first public skate park in Atlanta, the facility offers something for riders of all skill levels.
5. The BeltLine slogan is "Where Atlanta Comes Together," and that couldn't be any more true. Atlanta's Southern hospitality shines as strangers become friends exploring the city together.

VISIT THE ATLANTA BELTLINE WEBSITE >

LIKE THIS ARTICLE

LIKE THIS ARTICLE

Atlanta Beltline

Bike, walk, run, or dine on the Atlanta Beltline

The Atlanta BeltLine is Atlanta's newest outdoor space and is comprised of 22 miles of unused railroad tracks circling the core of the city's in-town neighborhoods. From trails and walkways to open green space and parks, the Atlanta BeltLine works to connect people throughout the city.

Thousands of visitors flock to the Atlanta BeltLine each week as a way to get exercise, explore Atlanta's neighborhoods and spend time with friends. A world-class amenity similar to New York City's High Line, the Atlanta BeltLine is also home to Art on the BeltLine, the Southeast's largest temporary public art project. Make a day of your BeltLine exploration by relaxing in Historic Fourth Ward Park or by grabbing a drink and lunch at one of the many restaurants situated along the BeltLine.

Reasons to visit the Atlanta Beltline

1. The Atlanta BeltLine is extremely pet friendly! Bring your four-legged fur baby along while you explore Atlanta's in-town neighborhoods on the BeltLine. Fido will appreciate the exercise and you'll love the company of your companion.
2. The Southeast's largest temporary public art project is all around you. Check out Art on the BeltLine as the public installations help to reclaim the 22 miles of unused rail.
3. Because you're hungry. That's right, hungry. Some of Atlanta's favorite restaurants are situated right on the Atlanta BeltLine and have walk-up patios so you can enjoy the view while noshing on great food and drinks. Grab brunch at TWO Urban Licks or a latte at Ponce City Market's Dancing Goats Coffee.
4. There's a skate park. For the young and the young at heart, the Historic Fourth Ward Skate Park is located right on the Atlanta BeltLine. The first public skate park in Atlanta, the facility offers something for riders of all skill levels.
5. The BeltLine slogan is "Where Atlanta Comes Together," and that couldn't be any more true. Atlanta's Southern hospitality shines as strangers become friends exploring the city together.

VISIT THE ATLANTA BELTLINE WEBSITE

>

LIKE THIS ARTICLE

LIKE THIS ARTICLE

